

The True Colors of a Princess Coloring Book

Author: Mark Loewen Illustrator: Ed Pokoj

About the Book

This coloring book is a companion to the children's picture book, What Does a Princess Really Look Like?.

These coloring pages encourage kids to think beyond the stereotype of a princess and find strength and courage inside themselves. They will color along as Chloe tells the story of how she created her own princess and in the process discovered that princesses are more than just glitter. She discovered that a princess can also be smart, kind, brave, assertive, and determined.

Each child can add their own artistic interpretation to the story. Young artists will also meet Chloe's dads who help her learn that nobody, not even princesses, need to be perfect.

This book, and the storybook it is a companion to, can also be used on an educational level to help support the themes of uniqueness and acceptance.

About the Author

Author Mark Loewen is a psychotherapist and a dad. He was born in Asuncion, Paraguay and moved to the United States to pursue his counseling career. He met the love of his life in Richmond, Virginia. A few years later, they became dads through open adoption. Becoming a father to a girl opened Mark's eyes to the challenges many girls and women face in today's world. He also started Brave Like a Girl, an organization that helps girls overcome challenges by tapping into their courage and strength.

About the Illustrator

Ed Pokoj is an illustrator and animator. He aims to make everyday life more fun and exciting by creating whimsical and colorful illustrations for the world to enjoy. He lives with his wife in Richmond, Virginia.

ISBN 978-1-945448-36-2 (Trade Paper)
Children's Coloring/Activity Book
Retail Price $8.95
Publication Date: March 1, 2019

Companion to What Does a Princess Really Look Like? Children's Fiction Picture Book
ISBN 978-1-945448-17-1
Retail Price $17.95 (Hardcover)
eISBN 978-1-945448-18-8
eBook Retail Price: $6.99 (Library - $7.99)
8x10, 34 Full Color pages

